讲师介绍:

Leslie Carey has worked with over 30 management teams implementing and teaching business and quality management systems to meet the requirements of ISO 9001, ISO 13485, and TS 16949. She has mentored numerous business leaders in use of simple, profound tools of thinking and quality to improve one's ability to make decisions and communicate.

Leslie teaches and facilitates workshops covering all basic quality tools, five-day quality/business management system training for top management, DFMEA and PFMEA, ISO 9001, TS16949 Lead Auditor training, core tools, internal auditing, TQM, train the trainer, and strategic planning.

Some of Leslie's automotive OEM projects have included design and implementing a formal problem-solving "school" for North America operations; design and implementation of a supplier quality manual for North America operations for 13 sites; simple assessment for nonfinancial people to identify suppliers suspected of having early financial problems; week-long quality management training; and design and implementation of supplier quality auditor training.

Leslie has also designed and developed curricula to increase rate of learning and recall based on concepts of cognitive learning and loci of control, and with her background in cognitive neural brain behavior research.

Comments from executive who has experienced Leslie's style of training:

She has a deep knowledge of the material she teaches and she is able to reach diverse audiences in a very effective manner.

However, Leslie's true skill is an innate ability to understand people, what they think, why they think it and how to help them through situations. Her skills have an amazing ability to accelerate the process that people and teams go through and help them get to their final destiny much sooner. For teams, she can help a team go through their "storming" and "norming" phases very quickly and effectively. I have personally seen her facilitate months of team development and growth in days. For individuals, she can help them see inside themselves to find their strengths and weaknesses and make the most of themselves.

Leslie Carey, come for the training, stay for the show! ;-)
